A FILMMAKER'S VIEW OF THE WHOLE CHAIN.

Filmmaker and story developer with hands-on experience across writing, direction, production, editing and delivery.

I have taken original material from idea and screenplay through casting, production, post and final OTT handover.

I am now bringing that end-to-end judgement to content development and acquisitions — evaluating stories, sharpening material, understanding production realities and helping culturally rooted projects find the right audience.

I know what happens to a story
after the pitch.

A development decision can change casting, schedule, budget, production complexity, edit possibilities and ultimately the audience experience. Having worked across that entire chain gives me a practical lens when evaluating new material.

THULASIVANAM / STREAMING ON ETV WIN

A STORY INSTINCT. A PRODUCTION PERSPECTIVE.

I understand what it takes for an idea to become a finished film. I want to apply that experience to content development and acquisitions — evaluating material, helping creators sharpen it and contributing an informed view of execution.

01

READ FOR THE STORY.

Premise · character · structure · tone · audience promise

Assess what is working, identify what is not and translate the reading into specific, useful development notes.

02

SEE THE SERIES, NOT JUST THE PILOT.

Character engine · evolving world · episode arc · format sustainability

Look beyond the first episode to whether the material can genuinely sustain the intended format.

03

CONNECT AMBITION TO EXECUTION.

Casting · locations · schedule · production pressure · delivery

Bring production awareness into development before expensive problems become production problems.

04

BRING A LOCAL POINT OF VIEW.

Telugu storytelling · cultural context · authenticity · stories that travel

Recognise the difference between cultural specificity and material that is merely “regional.”

05

MAKE THE PITCH TANGIBLE.

Loglines · treatments · beat sheets · bibles · visual development

Help creators communicate the project clearly through strong development material and AI-assisted visual exploration where useful.

MY APPROACH TO A CONTENT RECOMMENDATION

THE CREATIVE CASE

What is the hook?
Whose story is it?
Why this format?
Why keep watching?

THE DEVELOPMENT PATH

What already works?
What needs rewriting?
What collaborators could strengthen it?

THE PRACTICAL QUESTIONS

What should be understood about production, delivery and rights before the project progresses?

FILMMAKER JUDGEMENT. DEVELOPMENT DISCIPLINE. PRODUCTION AWARENESS.

I can engage with a creator on story, understand what the material needs to grow, recognise the production consequences of creative choices and help shape a clearer path towards the screen.

AI & CREATIVE DEVELOPMENT

STORY EXPLORATION

Using AI to explore concepts, character possibilities and scene alternatives during development.

VISUAL DEVELOPMENT

Creating mood references and visual treatments that communicate tone, world and creative intention.

PITCH PREPARATION

Using visual concepts, animatics and temporary creative material to support pitches and development conversations.
